	Question: Use this space to comment on the instructor's use or non-use of technology.
	For the most part, Dr. King knew how to use technology. If he did not, he was always willing to learn.
	It was frequent but necessary. The class is called "Writing in Digital Environments" after all.
	I liked the idea of making and using websites. It was very helpful in viewing other peoples work. It was also very easy to find our class schedule, assignments, etc.
	Class revolved around tech, so naturally it was always useful.
	Considering that this class is strongly centered around technology we used it very often in class and it was essential to the kind of work we were doing.
	This is a technology oriented class, so naturally there should be a pervading presence of technology throughout our work. Even in other classes of the sort that Ive been in, I think Dr. King takes the cake for introducing us to new mediums and useful programs. Hes got the understanding and the mastery to facilitate students learning about any form of technology that may be useful to our work.
	Dr. King had his own website where he had the daily schedule listed with assignments with some readings being on Moodle, some being on his website. His website was a very informational means to the course as you had everything at your disposal on the website. In class, Dr. King also showed numerous videos and audios that would be part of different assignments we had to do. This was extremely helpful, and I am glad he did this.

Please feel free to comment on areas such as: the instructor's engagement of student interest, the instructor's responsiveness to students, the syllabus, the readings, the exams, the assignments, the instructor's evaluation of your work, the online learning technology.
	I would say, not to be rude, but I notice you drag on the conversation/topic; over explaining and occasionally repeating.
	Dr. King is an amazing professor and this is an incredibly useful class that I walked away from with more skills.

	I really enjoyed this class. Meditation was always very nice, different from other classes Ive had. King is a great professor who cares about his students and his work. He pushes us to write things for ourselves and a broader audience, not just a grade. This allowed students to be more creatively and speak freely. The only complaint I would have is that some days just dragged on. I appreciate him using our full class time, I like getting what Im paying for. Just sometimes it wouldve been nice if he let us out a bit early when the conversations were done as opposed to just trying to drag conversation out of us. Overall, great class, great professor, great semester.
	Dr. King is very understanding and always willing to work around someones personal life.
	Course syllabus was very helpful and very organized. I felt that we had enough time to work on assignments and projects.
	Professor King is an awesome instructor. He supports his students and offers a good amount of creative freedom with assignments, which he will work to support and understand.
	I genuinely enjoyed this class and the way that it was structured. Dr. King does a great job of making sure you are understanding the content by having conferences to check in.
	The class really gave me a chance to flex my creative muscles in terms of each assignments open-endedness. Really recommend this class even if you dont enjoy writing.
	The instructor got numerous people in the class to participate daily, and I think that is so important. I have sat in numerous college classes here at Bonaventure where no one would offer to volunteer to participate in class. However, Dr. King was very good about getting everyone interested in the subject matter-- so we had rather meaningful discussions mostly every class. The readings and assignments always went hand-in-hand and he stressed this throughout the course. The readings were never too difficult and were always rather interesting to a large number of people in the class. He provided feedback on every assignment which was extremely helpful too. He allowed us to improve on any assignment.
	This class had the most substantial value for building my understanding and expertise in modern forms of writing in digital spaces of any class Ive taken. From programs to creating content, Dr. King was able to teach us about real skills that can benefit us in a practical sense.
	Question: Use this space to comment on the instructor's teaching methods lecture notes, podcasts, discussion forums, group work, etc..
King	The pace of the class was not for me. Again not to be rude, everyone learns at a different pace, the class would move slow at one point with Dr. King analyzing every little detail of a read or video or when he over explains. The class is much slower, when we have to do in class reflections on our work or on an assignment (that will eventually end up in homework).
King	Very good design to class time. It was helpful that Dr. King gave us feedback to better our future assignments.
King	Methods were great. Dr. King always has us meditate before every class and I feel as though that keeps us ready to learn.
King	Dr. Kings examples and references were always cool and useful.
King	We had few lecture notes-- there were no power point presentations or anything of that sort. We had an outline, if you will, of notes, but much of that was class discussion. We would also split up into groups frequently to provide peer reivews, and that was a really rewarding experience. I liked how he made us do this with every assignment post.
King	Dr. Kings method of lecture combined with peer review has been useful to advancing the development of my thoughts with great consistency. Im thankful for the new avenues of thought presented to me in this class.
